THE LAMENT OF THE LONE SLIPS FIELDER

BY BROTHER BRIAN CLERY

(Composed in moments of solitude whilst fielding at first slip)

*The game of cricket is world renowned
And mostly played by gents
But in the game are many things
That really don't make sense.*

*The positions may have peculiar names
And be located on a plan
But the position dreaded by one and all
Is the lonely 1st slips man.*

*To field in 1st slip all day long
May seem to some like fun
But after 40 seasons mate
The brain goes partly numb.*

*He walks onto the field of play
Accompanied by his mates
"First slip old son" the captain says
He curses all the fates.*

*He curses that time years ago
When flying through the air
He took a splendid one hand catch
Without a thought or care.*

*The incident was often recalled
In moments around the bar
Though he's never taken another since
He's still seen as a star.*

*These days he's doing very well
If he sees the ball at all
Occasionally he stops a snick
But catch it! Not at all.*

*He envies all the younger blokes
Who throw and chase and run
They get their blooming money's worth
He just stands around in the sun.*

*But like so many lamentations
Throughout man's history
They never last forever
And there's an end to misery.*

*It chanced his team the finals made
Through no fault of his own
His team made 382
The others should have gone home.*

*But cricket is a funny game
And the match is never lost
Until the final ball is bowled
Only then one counts the cost.*

*The other team could do nothing wrong
They drove and cut and swung
And by the time 9 wickets fell
Their score was 381.*

*Our friend in 1st slip stood alone
Observing all the play
Two runs to win, what could he do
But only curse and pray!*

*With tension mounting to heights unknown
The bowler bowled with care
The ball moved late, the batsman swung
A sharp snick rent the air!*

*For one split second, time stood still
The ball flew to his right
Though only inches off the ground
It moved with the speed of light.*

*An incident from seasons past
Revived a memory
He dived with fingers spread apart
He caught it, victory!!!*

*His mates were round him in a thrice
And chaired him off the ground
And all night long in the old club house
His name was toasted round.*

*Forty years may be forty years
And never a year the same
But when glory comes, as come it must
On earth there's no other game.*

*Now he's hung up his old white boots
Making way for another man
A bloke you know, should share his joys
When and wherever he can.*

*And it warms his heart as he breasts the bar
And hears that catch recalled
How they won the Shield because of him
That Shield upon the wall.*

*Could he have it all again
There's one thing that's for sure
He'd want to be a 1st slip man
No matter what the score.*
